

2014 Summer Reading Program

@ East Mountain Library

A spectacular view of the sun with both white light and h-alpha.

Sunspots, sundials and more... Children and teens took home their own pair of solar viewing glasses.

Learning the importance of color. A young visitor uses an IR sensor to determine which side of the brick was hotter.

Telling time the old fashioned way ---students make their own sundial