

Students observed the sun through a solar viewer, a white light filtered telescope, and an H-alpha filtered telescope.

The teachers helped students learn about the health effects of the sun and the importance of color.

Each class created a model of our solar system.